

CSDVA State Testing

Middle School State Testing for the week of May 16th

Middle School CSDVA State Testing Update

Good Evening CSDVA Families,

Next week we will be holding State Testing for our Middle School CSDVA students here at Kirk Middle School. I would like to provide you with some information for next week in this newsletter.

While we are conducting State Testing next week there will not be classes or assignments posted Monday through Thursday. Classes will resume on Friday, May 20th. Since our teachers will be assisting with administering the exams and all Delaware public school students are expected to participate in testing we will not hold classes. We also do not want to add additional work or stress on our students during the 4 days they are testing.

- We will provide breakfast and lunch to students, and students are permitted to bring a snack and water. We would also encourage students to bring a book to read and color pencils if they finish early. Students are not permitted to go on to their Chromebooks after they complete their tests.
- Please make sure your child charges their Chromebook each day before testing. Also, if your child does not have a CSD Chromebook we will have additional devices on-site for students to use for testing.
- During testing, students may not have their cellphone with them so we will have students turn off their phones and place them in an envelope with their names on the envelope and secure them until the testing session is completed.
- Bus information has been emailed to parents who completed the transportation request survey by the 4/28 deadline. This email was sent on Tuesday, May 10th.
- If you are dropping your student off please use the main entrance on Brennan Drive and all students will first report to the auditorium which is right inside our front doors. From there we will meet with all students prior to beginning testing.
- Testing will end at 1:00 and car riders will be dismissed from testing at this time.
